ROMAN SOLDIER'S CHAINMAIL

| | |
|---------------------|---|
| NAME: | Lorica Hammata |
| DESCRIPTION: | This is a Roman soldier's chainmail shirt. It has steel rings that all joined together with special little connectors called "rivets". It would have protected the soldier from hits from weapons and was found in a fort on Hadrian's Wall, which was a big wall built to protect the Romans from a group of Britons called the "Picts". |
| QUESTIONS: | 1) How was the chainmail connected together? 2) Where was it found? |
